BRITISH ARMY'S AIR CONQUEST

RIGIBLE BALLOON CIRCLES OVER LONDON

War Machine Sails From Farn rough to Metropolis Under Complete Control

on, Oct. 4.-That the British lution of the problem of aeria of Londoners when the dirigible ral trials at Aldershot camp, sailed om Farnborough, 35 miles southwest here, to London, and after man-suvring over the city started back to Blackfriars bridge, and making a sharp turn proceeded over Fleet street and the Strand, making a complete circle over the latter thoroughfare, watched the Strand, making a complete circle over the latter thoroughfare, watched by thousands of people. The balloon then went around Trafalgar square, over the war office and past Westminster Abbey, and the houses of parliament, travelling about 15 miles an hour, and being under complete control. The appearance of the balloon was a great surprise, as it had been announced that changes in its construction had been found necessary, after the last trial, and that they would occupy some days. The balloon is sausage shaped, about 100 feet long by 30 feet in diameter, and has a lifting capacity of about one ton after taking in the weight of the engine, car, etc. It carries a crew of three men. The car of the balloon, which is shaped like a boat, is constructed of aluminum and canvas. The engines are so built that the exhaust vapor is turned into gas, and is carried up into the balloon above by means of a tube. The capacity of the balloon is 5,600 cubic feet. The petroleum for the mofors, is carried in two torpedo-like dyinders above the car. The envelope of the balloon is a parchment like material, similar to gold-beaters skin, and is built up of thousands upon thousands of pieces of few inches square, joined together by a secret process.

There is a large sall at the stern of the car, stretched on a wooden frame fully 12 feet square, which is used as a rudder.

From the centre of the car, at the Death of Agent.

Ottawa, Oct. 4.—A cable this morning to the trade and commerce department announces the death of G. W. Burke, Canadian commercial agent in Jamaica. The news was a surprise to the department because a letter was received from Mr. Burke yesterday under date of New York, October 2nd., whither he had gone for change and in the hope of benefitting his nervous system, which suffered a severe shock in the Kingston earthquake last January.

with Canada—Settlement
May Be Easy.

Oftawa, Oct. 5.—Another telegram received by the government from Dr. Munro. Vancouver's immigration official, says that the Japanese entering Canada not only had passports heretofore, but that it was recognized by the Japanese consul. That was why he had notified the steamship companies of the necessity of having passports, as the rule was being violated through importations from Honolulu. The Japanese coming direct from Japan still had passports which shows that the Japanese government is still recognizing the arrangement made by Canada with Japan as to restricted immigration, and, therefore, the settlement of the whole difficulty ought to be tolerably easy once the Hon. Mr. Lemieux meets the Mikado's government. But for the Honolulu shipments, it is stated, there would have been no difficulty.

DRINKS CARBOLIC ACID.

St. Paul, Oct. 5.—Miss Helen Anderson, aged 36, and claiming Winnipeg as her home, walked into the Astoria hotel. Wabash avenue, at 12 o'clock last night and created consternation among the late loungers by her evident distress. "Are you ill, madame," asked the night clerk, and receiving no intelligible reply, the woman was shown a place to lie down and the police were notified. It was found that Miss Anderson had taken a large quantity of carbolic acid before entering the hotel, and after temporary treatment she was removed to the city hospitl, where it removed to the city hospitl, where it was said this morning that she will recover.

Miss Anderson's story is to the effect that she procured poison at Parker's drug store adjoining the hotel. She took one swallow from the bottle and threw the rest away. Her mouth was badly burned, but she did not take enough poison to cause death. She claimed to have a brother-in-law named N. W. Brocks, living in Winnipeg.

LANDS FOR RAILWAY

St. John, Oct. 5.— Justice McLeod has ordered that a warrant of possession be issued to put the national transcontinental railway commission into immediate possession of the required lands of Beuchard of Alaska, and to put down all resistance and opposition which might be made to the taking of such possession. His Honor also decided that the national transcontinental was a government railway and that the provisions of the general railway act, requiring a deposit to be put up before taking pessession, did not apply to it.

That some great underlying principle of responsible government has been trifled with somewhere is the feeling even among the ordinary layman of before the public in avowing himself as a supporter of the bill, and shirking in an unconstitutional way, all responsibility for the refusal of the Lleut. Governor's assent.

Up to date no reason has been assigned for the advice given by the Premier, which prompted the action of the Lleut. Governor.

That responsibility for the disallowance of the Natal Act reposed in the Premier, or in any event that the situation demands elucidation from a constitutional point of view, has been freely suggested wherever the matter has been seriously discussed, and the idea is now developing that the Premier must accept responsibility for having advised the disallowance of an act which was passed by his parliament without a dissenting voice.

At the Vancouver convention something was said with respect to this subject by Fred Peters, K. C., whose long experience in parliamentary matters in Prince Edward Island, of which he was one time premier, naturally enlisted attention to a striking parliamentary situation. Mr. Peters was saked by a reporter this morning to discuss this matter as it appeared to his view.

"The ministers of the Governor are alike bound to oppose, in the legislature, measures of which they disapprove, and if notwithstanding such a measure be carried the ministry should either resign or accept the decision of the legislature, and advise the passage of the bill. It then rests with the Governor-General or the Lieut. Governor as the case may be, to consider whether the act conflicts with his instructions or his duty as an Imperial or Dominion officer, and if it does so conflict, he is bound to reserve it whatever the advice tendered to him may be; but if not he will doubtless feel it his duty to give his assent in accordance with advice to that effect which it was the duty of his ministers to give.

dispersed.

Several of the property owners stated, after a free discussion, that they had after a free discussion as the scheme for repaying in the way it was explained last evening. They moreover were statisfied with the proposition as the best under the property owners on the street and put the proposition before them.

The conference then adjourned.

Accordingly Ald, Vincent, James Forman and A. W. Simmons were appointed a committee to wait upon the pointed a committee to wait apon the other proposition and explain the working of it in the hope that they would come to endorse it. Messrs. Holland, Pemberton, Musgrave and Langley had written expressing disapproval of the scheme, and these will be visited.

The plan of the council which seem-and these will be visited.

The plan of the council, which seemed to appeal most strengly to the property owners who were present last evening, was one which looked to repaying the street, the cost to be extended over ten years. For the first five years the city would assume the liability, and for the second five years the property owners would pay. By this method the city assumes one-half the cost, the maximum which it can assume, but while the property owners are still paying off the cost of the payement now in place, they will not be laid. At the end of five years the property owners will be tree from all cost under the by-law under which the present pavement was laid, and which costs about 74-ents a foot. They will then beginn paying their share of the new pavement at a cost of about 27 cents a foot.

If this is acceded to by the property owners, the work will likely begin at once and be pushed to completion. The blocks to be used, will be treated in the new works and are expected to last at least fifteen years.

In opening the meeting last evening His Worship reminded the property owners that the council of to-day was in ho wise responsible for the paying of the street some years ago. The council of to-day took its responsibility to see that the street was put in shape, and asked the help of the property owners.

Ald, Henderson was asked, as chair-The plan of the council, which seem tasee that the street was put in shape, and asked the help of the property owners.

Ald Henderson was asked, as chairman of the streets committee, to outline the plan proposed. He said it was a question what proportion by the propeety owners. The cement foundation he reimined them was good for 50 years or longer. The estimated life of the block was ten years. While they had not lasted that long, it must be remembered that the cement work lasted much longer, so that by averaging it up the paving really lasted longer than the estimated life of ten years. If the city paid half the cost of the work and the whole of the intersections, it assumed much more than it did at first. To attempt to make the present paving tray to last out the ten years would be a bad policy. When an estimate was made upon any piece of work as to its life, it Should not bregarded as a guarantee that it wouls last. that time.

Another scheme outlined was one by which the city financed the proposition for the first five years, paying half only of the entersection as well as the rest. The proporty owners—would then finance it for the next ten years, costing 27 cents a foot yearly. There was a difficulty in this owing to the fact that it became a question how the city could pay this five years' share.

Ald, Henderson did not think the first arrangement a hardship upon the property owners, constituting as it did a double assessment for a few years. New Years, and the proposition have ter-replace it.

Ald, Fell wanted to know what kind of repairing should be done.

Mr. Young said bad blocks should not be taken out and replaced. It should not yearly shall be done.

Ald. Verrinder pointed out the danger in delaying the repairing of the atreet until it could be paid for out of the general revende, the cement foundation would require replacing.

Mr. Brown wanted to know where the property owners would be if the blocks did not last fifteen years, as it was prophesied they would. The present paving on Government street could not be said to have lasted more than three years.

Ald. Henderson pointed out that Fort and Broad street paving promised to last fully ten years. He said that by the end of the month the plant would be completed at a cost of $1,200 or $1,400 to creoxote the blocks. The blocks would then have a life of 15 years.

Mr. Young was not satisfied with the situation. He did not think it was necessary to take up all the paving.

Engineer Topp, asked by his Worship for an opinion, said that if they started to repair it would be difficult to find any part that should not come up.

Mr. Young said that past councils should have looked after the replacing of bad blocks as soon as they began to docay.

Ald. Gleason said the paving was past repair. If the work was let go the foundation was going to—suffer. The proposition of Ald. Hepderson was a fair one. The city faid gone to the full limit of its power by offering to pay one half the cost.

The musical arrangements follow: Loss of appetite, coated tongue, bad taste in the mouth, heavy dull head-ache and a dultisluggish feeling—these are the symptoms of stomach trouble. They indicate that the stomach is on strike, that it is no longer furnishing to the blood the full quota of nourishment that the body demands, hence every organ suffers. There are two methods of treatment, the old one by which the stomach is humored by the use of predigested foods and artificial ferments, and the new one—the Dr. Williams' Pink Pills method—by which the stomach is toned up to do the

OUSTS COMPETITORS IN AFRICAN TRADE

Hearing Against the Alleged Combine- Is Continued---Omnibus Contract With S. S. Companies

New York, Oct. 4.—An ominous contract, whereby the Standard Oil Company obtains from every steamship company operating between New York and all ports in Africa a rate for lubricating oil that is about one-half of what its competitor, the New York Lubricator Company, pays, was produced to-day in the hearings of the federal suit against the alleged oil combins.

This contract was placed in evidence, hearings of the federal suit against the alleged oil combine.

This contract was placed in evidence, and Philip Hairlson, manager of the New York Lubricating Oil Company, declared that his company was forced to pay double the Standard Oil rate, notwithstanding his protest to the steamship companies. Mr. Harrison said that by reason of the freight discrimination the Standard could place its products in Africa at less than the cost price of the oils of his own company, and that to maintain African trade the New York Lubricating Oil Company was forced to purchase from the Standard the cheaper grades of oils which it sold to its oursemers.

Mr. Harrison said that the shipping charges to his company were increased from 2; shillings until they reached 42 shillings and sixpence in 1966. The contract with the Standard, made on February 10th, 1996, with the Hansa, Prince, Houston and American-African steamship lines, made the rate to the Standard for cil shipments slightly less than IT shillings. The witness declared that he wrote a letter to the steamship agents demanding equal rates for the companies, but no change in the charges was made.

Definition of the charges was made.

The Jury declared that President Moffett had not only falled to uphold the statements he made, but that he had no knowledge whatever leading up to them, and the statement purporting to be made by him was in fact made by Mortiz, of, this city, one of, the attorneys for the Standard Oll Company in the recent. Irial which resulted in its conviction and the levying against it by Judge Landis of the fine of $29,240,000. The particular statement in the pamphlet to which the jury was instructed to call the attention of President Moffett was as follows:

"Thousands of tons of freight have been shipped from these points (Whiting, Pullman and South Chicago) during the past 15 years, under the same circumstances as the Standard shipments, and if the Standard is guilty in this case so is practically every other shipper in this great manufacturing territory. Is there a purpose in selecting the Standard as a victim?"

victim?"

Judge Landis in instructing the jury declared that the pamphlet containing these words had been extensively circulated, and he desired that President Moffett be given every opportunity to inform the jury regarding illegal shipments by other people or corporations, After receiving the report of the jury today the judge dismissed it without comment other than to thank the jurors for their services. Ames was serving a twenty-year sen-tence for manslaughter, and had been working in the prison shirt factory, but feigning illness, was permitted to re-turn. There he forged an order for a broom and went to the store-room with oroom and went to the store-room with Gill to secure it. While Gill was stoop-ing, Ames suddenly drew a small case knife from a place of concealment and plunged it into the steward's back. He missed the heart by only two inches. A on his recent trip through the North-western and Pacific States Secretary Straus' attention was directed to the increasing importation of women for increasing importation of women for immoral purposes. The Japanese and Korean Exclusion League informed him that hundreds of Japanese women were being brought to América purposely and set in practical slavery after their terrible struggle ensued. It is proposed to have a careful inquiry instituted, in all large cities, particularly, and a round-up of allen immoral women will be made. Students and hoodlums collected on the roofs of houses and in roadways and pelted passers-by with bricks.

Europeans are especially singled out for attack. Bengal newspapers to-day threw the whole blame for the riots upon the police, and printed statements alleging police brutality, all of which are denied by the authorities and the witnesses. There has been no loss of life, but many persons sustained severe wounds.

The senator made this denial in application in cour to-day by his attorneys, asking for authority to examine certain papers in the case. He asserts that she had neve made a claim to him of such a marriage until December 24th, 1906, but on the contrary, tried to extort money from him more than three years after the time from which she asserts she was married to him. The senator averred she was threatening to sue him for she was threatening to sue him for breach of promise and retained O'Flaherty and Fulion, of Richmond, Va., to act for her. The senator submitted a copy of a letter from that firm written to him in January, 1995, in which they announced Miss Wood employed them to prosecute her claim for damages for breach of promise, and for alleged conspiracy, culminating in New York in 1993, by which she asserted she was fraudulently compelled by agents of the senator to surrender certain letters written to her by him.

Senator Platt said he ignored this letter, but his attorneys received other letters from O'Flaherty and Fullon threatening to take the case into court unless it was settled. When he declined, "they then," said the senator, "discontinued attempts at extortion until just prior to the beginning of the

The evening of De-cember 24th, 1996, he said he received a letter from Miss Wood, in which she stated she had received a letter from him acknowledging her as his wife. This he said was untrue, and no such acknowledgment had ever been made. "If such a communication ex-ists." the senator said, "It is a forgery manufactured by the plaintiff to extort money from me."

THE BOWSER BILL

Premier McBride, Attorney-Genera Bowser and the constitutionally eru dite newspaper which poses as the chief organ and defender of these two statesmen have now had several opportunities of explaining the circumstances under which the Bowser bill came into and passed out of existence. The people of British Columbia hav listened to or read these statements and it is for them to decide whether all the parties concerned have any considerable regard for either their own veracity or for the fundamental priniples of constitutional government. while the Bowser bill is yet before the legislature that it will be disallowed. He will not deny that such is the fact, we suppose although we admit that in the light of certain other statements by the Premier it would not at all be surprising if he attempted to deny even this. Here we have evidence from the mouth of the Premier himself that he had discussed the Bowser bill with His Honor the Lieut.-Governor. Does Mr. McBride intend to convey the impression that in the course of his conversation with the representative of the Crown he expressed no opinion one way or the other in regard to the proposed disal-lowance of the measure? Even if he tendered no advice, would the fact of his ignorance of the duties and respon sibilities of the chief adviser of the Crown relieve him of responsibility? As we have already pointed out, the Crown must have advisers in all cases who will assume full responsibility for its actions and justify them before either the legislature which may be in existence or before a legislature which may be brought into existence as a conse quence of the course of the Crown. The political career of Premier Mc-Bride indicates beyond question that he either has no conception of his duties and responsibilities, as Prime Minister or that he is determined to deliberately make all such constitutional duties and responsibilities subsidiary to the mere personal ambition of clinging to power. In a former ease the Lieut.-Governor clearly expressed his lack of confidence in the judgment of Mr. McBride by refusing to accept as one of his advisers Mr John Houston of Nelson. In that instance instead of adopting the procedure called for by the constitution, resigning and appealing to the constit uencies to pronounce judgment, Mr. McBride threw the responsibility for the deadlock upon the representative of the Crown. In effect he said, "If my advice is not acceptable 'it kin be al-I assure Your Honor that my principles are not fixed and unalter able. They can easily be made con-formable to your will." In the lates instance he, or those who essay to speak on his behalf, claim that the respons bility rests upon Ottawa, which, while it did not give any advice in this particular case, would undoubtedly have vetoed the Bowser bill if it had ment, he is presumably learned in the law, and he is the legal adviser of his colleagues. A few days ago Mr. Bowser interviewed by a representative of the Colonist, contended that Rt. Hon. Joseph Chamberlain. when Secretary of State for the Colonies, had advised the government of munications which had passed between the Imperial governments of Great Britain and Japan, that it was competent for the provincial legislature British Columbia to pass a Natal Act, and that the passage of such an act would be the most convenient method of settling the controversy between the two powers respecting Asiatic im-migration into British Columbia. It is perhaps needless to say the Times has just as little confidence in the state- ited number of passports to in ments of Attorney-General Bowser as emigrants each year could be continue it has in the assertions of Mr. Bowser's in force. has written itself into a trance.

Trifling things sometimes have very potent political effect in the United States. Take the case of Mr. Fairbanks, the vice-president who is credited with presidential aspirations, although Secretary Taft is acknowledged to be the political protege of the greatest figure of all, President Roosevelt. Mr. Fairbanks, said to be a temperance man-a teetoller, in fact-recently when entertaining his friend the president, is reported to have offered refreshments in the form of cocktails. This drink, though freely indulged in by all manner of politicians in the United States, appears to have sealed the political career of Mr. Fairbanks as far as the presidency is concerned. It has created more talk than the valiant determination of Mr. Roosevelt to settle the trusts. And the somewhat curious feature of the case to an outsider is that it does not appear to have affected the standing of Mr. Roosevelt the recipient of the stimulating and palatable beverage, in the slightest degree. The belief evidently is that whatever President Roosevelt does is right. He can do no wrong thing. All his actions are beyond criticism. He goeth forth as a strong man armed. Nothing can overcome him, not even therry floating on the surface thereof. He numbers the population, setting the trust magnates on the one side and the the other as "undesirable citizens." the United States has further need of the present state of social and econom unrest without them, his words would be taken up by the press and upon the heaven-inspired leader. There is every acclamation. His presence in the field ranks. What Other People Think

ASIATIC EXCLUSION. To the Editor:-With reference to the case nation: With reference to the receipt meeting at which an Asiatic exclusion league was formed, I should like to present to your readers a phase of this subject which, from the Colonist report, appears to have been overlooked. Adam Smith pointed out in his 'Wealth of Nations' that all wealth is produced by the application of labor and estimated. of Nations" that all wealth is produced by the application of labor and capital, which is mesely stered up labor or its equivalent, to land. This axiom of conomics has been endorsed by such thinkers as John Stuart, Mill, Herbert Spencer, Henry clearge and all political seconomists of note. This axiom also bears upon its face the evidence of its ruth. Now, if this is so, what follows as a logical sequence, as refers to the subject under discussion? The land being the passive factor in the production of wealth, any addition to the labor or capital of a country must fead to increased production of wealth in that country. If this is so, why should the people of any country agitate to exclude what would naturally increase their wealth, namely, more labor power? Such a thing appears

Such a thing appears immediately absund. New the fournaments of the country and thing as a rule without having some motive. Let us see if we can discover the underlying motive in this case. It is because he does not get his share of the increased national wealth which always follows increased labor power. Now, why is it that the majority of people do not get their legitimate share of the increased production of wealth which always follows increased labor power. Now, why is it that the majority of people do not get their legitimate share of the increased production of wealth which always follows increased labor power, irrespective of whether the laborer is an Asiatic or a white man? It is because the passive factor in production, namely, the land, is allowed by law to be privately owned or monopolised by the few. If the land were common property, or all that value which is due to the presence of population, and is therefore produced by the people in common, were taken for public purposes, everyone would participate if the increased production of wealth which always follows cithes increased habor power or improved methods of applying labor to land. cover from the Mathiand this morning and will leave for Designate to-day.

Mr. Dickie has recently returned from Bear river, where the Portland Canal Mining & Development. Company, in which he is interested, are operating, and he brings back a most optimistic report. He says he believes that without exception this district possesses the richest body of ore in the province, and suggests that a lively movement may be looked for in the country next spring. The whole mineralized area of the district has been already staked off.

The property that Mr. Dickie is interested in is located about five miles from the head of the Portland canal, on the Canadian side. The ores are of the galena variety; carrying gold, silver and lead, The company have eight or ten men at work, and a sample shipment of several tons of ore will be shipped out in the near future.

A bridge, about one-quarter mile long, is under construction across the Bear river, near the head of the canal, by the provincial government, and this will facilitate the conduct of mining operations in the district.

It is expected, Mr. Dickie says, that construction will begin on the Portland canal railway early next spring. The charter for this road was secured at the last session of the legislature, and the road is designed to tap the mineral wealth of the Bear River country.

Japanese Resident of United States Had Difficulty in Getting to His Home.

A curious chapter in the administration of the immigration laws of the United States has just concluded. T. near Seattle for over eight years and has a ranch there, recently took a trip to Cloverdale, B. C., for the purpose of visiting a friend, leaving his passport at Eagle Harbor. Upon returning home he was arrested at Blaine, Wash., and, although he offered to prove that he was domiciled in the United States, had lived there for eight years and owned property there, the immigration officials decided to deport him.

Upon reaching this decision they were confronted by the problem of where to deport him to. They could not send him back to Japan, and they understood that he did not beleng to Canada. Finally, he was sent to Victoria to be instructed by the United States immigration agents in this city as to the best means he could employ to regain admission to the States, and his home. Under the Dominion laws the Japanese was not entitled to remain in this country, and the man was promptly sent back to the States, without his sent back to the States, without his ese was not entitled to remain in this country, and the man was promptly sent back to the States without his passport, he could not remain in Canada and he could not be deported to Japan. pleased to hear that these musical entertainments are to be resumed to-morrow.

The concert to-morrow afternoon will commence immediately after the close of the regular devotional service, about 3.8 o'clock, and will be held in the corridor of the hospital.

Although these concerts are held primarily for the pleasure and benefit of the patients they have always attracted a considerable number of music lovers not connected with the institution, who have been regular attendants from their first visit to the hospital. It has been more than once observed that the programme rendered at each concert could not be heard at a public entertainment under a fairly high charge for admission. The concerts are, however, given gratis, and through the courtesy of the authorities and the resident staff of the hospital all who wish to attend may do so.

The concerts, as far as the vocal selections are concerned, are sacred in character, although some latitide must necessarily be given in the selection of fustrumental items. At present it is intended to give a concert on the first Sunday in each month, but should any change be made in this arrangement notice will be given in the press.

The research verdict seems to have been that Saanich the birds were not as numerous as was expected, while at many ther points there were plently to make rood hunting. Fred White, of E. White's realty of-ice, went to Kokslish and shot on Mr. Kelly's farm. He brought in a mixed ive birds before breakfast on the morn ing of the first.

Of the others reported, Blanchard Bell killed eight fine cocks, J. Musgrave fitteen, as well as a large number of quait and grouse; A. S. Barton eight, Mr. Buckle of the Colonist two, Mr. Knapp of the Radcliffe Lumber Comfive and a number of other small knapp of the Radeline Lumber Company, five, and a number of other small bags. Mat. Cottle and Thomas Meredith, of Nanaimo, went down to Duncans and took home a few but reported them scarce in the section they visited. What has been said above does not anything like cover the whole ground. Numbers of those who probably killed a good many birds have not been seen, but on the whole there were a few big bags, and the birds seem to have been scarcer than was expected. To-morrow and this afternoon a large number of funters will go out and some damage will be done to the coveys. The pheasants know pretty well how to take care of themselves, and the shooting is often as good a month after the opening as it is on the first of October.

The following English fishing news, just to hand, will perhaps prove of interest:

The Rev. S. E. V. Filleul, of All Saints' rectory, Dorchester, has just achieved a record in dry fly fishing, catching in the river Frome a trout weighing 12 1-4 pounds. Mr. Filleul was using a small split cane Hardy "Perfection" rod, with a "hare's ear" on a No. "" hook (about three-eights of an inch in size), and the finest tackle. It took an hour and a quarter to "play" the fish, which was landed in a clothes hasket. The fish, which was in splendid condition, was 29 1-2 inches long and 3-4 inches girth. Mr. R. B. Marston, editor of the Fishing Gazette, thinks that the previous largest trout taken with a dry fly was one of about nine pounds. The following is a list of the largest trout caught by other methods than dry fly fishing: 39 1-2 lbs. (the record)—Loch Awe, 1886; 28 lbs., Loch Stennes, 1889; 26 lbs., Loch Ennel, 1894; country around the covert was driven in by parties of men on all sides, and thus the birds were constantly rising in front of the guns—not driven over their heads, as is the case under English system.

In the same year 1,400 partridges were killed in four hours by a party of three guns. Such bags as these would, of course, be quite impossible in a country like England, where other interests besides shooting have to be observed. In Austria and Bohemia, where Count Trautimansdorff's estates are situated, thousands of acres are planted and cultivated with the one object of maintaining as large a head of game as possible, ing as large a head of game as possible and beaters are employed by the hun-ing as large a head of game as possible, and beaters are employed by the hundred. As many as six hundred men are engaged on these occasions to collect the game into one principal covert, as described above.

Lord Ashburton's bag of 5,000 partridger in a week, obtained some ten years ago at The Grange, Alresford, Hants, is still the British record for these birds, but other remarkable bags have been obtained. At Holkham, 3,992 partridges, were killed by fourguns in December, 1858, and 4,076 were bagged by Lord Ashburton's party of eight guns, including the late Duke of Cambridge, in four days' shooting in October, 1875.

Up to that time the record was held by the Maharajah Duleep Singh, whose bag for four days in October, 1876, amounted to over 2,500 partridges to four guns; while in the following year 801 partridges were killed in a single for the partridges were killed in a single for the strength of the single for the strength of the single for the strength of the single strength of the single amounted to over 2,500 partridges to four guns; while in the following year 801 partridges were killed in a single day by three guns; and in 1835 no fewer than 366 birds fell to the same number of guns in the course of a day's shooting. These big bage were made at Elveden, in Suffolk, the total of fitteen days' partridge shooting in the year last mentioned amounting to no fewer than 6,500 birds to three guns only. Before the "seventies" some big bags were made on the late General Hall's shooting at Six Mile Bottom, Cambridgeshire, the best record being nearly 2,000 partridges in four days in 1869 to a party of nine guns.

The best bags obtained by individuals are 780 partridges to his own gun in a single day by the late Maharajah Duleep Singh, and Lord Walsingham's famous record of 1,070 grouse on August 20th, 1888, at Blubberhouse, in Yorkshire. His Lordship had shot 842 grouse on the same moor on August 28th, 1872. Another famous bag was the 728 grouse killed in one day in August, 1872, by Sir Frederick Milbank.

FINAL FIGURES.

Saturday's remarkable cricket at the Oval brought an eventful season to a close, and it says much for the stability of the greatest of all games that the meteorological freaks of an appalling summer have not stified interest. The abnormal wet may have caused gates to suffer in most directions, but judging from the interest centred in the doings of the South Africans, the excitement arouned by the prowess of Notts the unbeaten, and the capital parronage extended to the last match of the campaign, it cannot, in justice, be said that public affection for the game is on the decrease. It has been a summer of adverse conditions for batsmen, and those who treasure the prestige of the game have noted with pleasure that there are still great players who can rise superior to difficulties. For C. B. Fry, P. E. Warner, and Hayward the season has been a triumph. Depalved of nearly all his cricket last year by his accident at Lord's, the first named has made a welcome return to the field, and now heads the first named has made a welcome return to the field, and now heads the first named has made a velcome return to the field, and now heads the first named has made a selection of his wonderful average of 70 in 1905, when he was second to R. E. Foster in a batsman's year. The batting of Warner may not have appealed to the crowd so much as that of Fry, but, the FINAL FIGURES. when he was second to R. E. Foster in a batsman's year. The batting of Warner may not have appealed to the crowd so much as that of Fry, but the critical have not been slow to recognize its great merits of inestimable service to his county. The old Rugbeian has advanced from sixteenth to second place, and overtakes Hayward by his place, and overtakes Hayward by his double century in the last match of the season. Although his batting may net have been so "fluent" on occasions as it might have been, Hayward has again proved himself one of the greatest of cricketers. He had to take a brief rest cricketers. He had to take a brief rest early in the season owing to lumbago, but there was not much wrong with him subsequently, and it was curious that he did so little in the test matches, and performed so well elsewhere. The wickets have presented few terrors for G. L. Jessop, who has had quite a good year, and demonstarted the value of pluck. Perrin and Tydesley again deservedly occurs high positions. A most year, and demonstarted the value of pluck. Perrin and Tydesley again deservedly occupy high positions. A most striking feature is the success of the Foster family, R. E., H. K., and G. N. having all upheld the honor of a famous name, and between them set up a unique record. K. L. Hutchings average over twenty less an innings than last-year, and it is worthy of note, in view of their success, that the highest of the South Africans in the list is G. A. Faulkner, with comparatively modest figures. In the bowling, however, the colonials take pride of place, the "googlies" of R. O. Schwartz having wrought rare destruction. Very little behind comes the famous Yorkshiremen, Hirst and Haigh, who have reason to lament the fact of their country's batting not having backed up their efforts as well as usual. In addition to Schwartz, G. C. White, A. E. Vogler, and G. A. Faulkner, of the South Africans, are included among the first fif-

Rhodes has made a big advance on last year, whilst Blythe has bowled splendidly. There has been no more gratifying feature than the return to form of J. T. Hearne. CAVILL AT GOLDEN GATE.

St. Louis, is the king of jockeys in New York right now. He is being everywhere declared the best boy of the year, and the greatest owners of thoroughbreds in America want his services.

Miller is only 18 years old. There are few boys in the world who can boast of the success that has been his during the last two years. Unlike fame on the turf, Miller has "lasted." Other jockeys have had one year of great success, only to drop into the ordinary class.

A boat accident, followed by a wild fight for life and the loss of three lives, took place at Widnes, Lancs.

Close to Messrs, Hutchinson's alkali, works runs the Sankey and St. Helens canal, and it is customary for those employees at the works who live on the oposite side of the canal to cross in a flat-botomed boat, known as "the coffin." When the hooter at the works sounded about 16 men jumped into the boat. It was obvious that the craft was overloaded, and as it reached the middle of the canal it began to rock in dangerous fashion. Then suddenly it sank.

The struggling workmen fought desperately to reach a place of safety. They clutched at anything at hand, and swarmed round the canal boats. The good swimmers were widly grasped at by the others. Eventually thirteen of the men were rescued. These were missing, Wm. Prince, Wm. Miller and Fred Kilshaw.

This is the greatest book Gilbert Parker has written. It is a novel of such strength as few attain. Here, in the realm of adventure, love is noble, strife has a purpose, and victory arrives to those who fight a good fight.

The young English here is a Quaker, his every institut opposed to conflict, and yet he is plunged into the bloody attrife of Mohammedan Egypt. The high-bred English woman who is the heroipe is unaclish and tender, and yet she is the hyginning of his fight. Their meeting in the Orient is sudden and wonderful, for, defending her, he slays a man, and for hereake takes his part in the strife that follows. The man, have and gentle, fights in Egypt; the woman loyal and unhappy, waits in England. And there is a distance between them which is greater than that.

The story is full of action, full of contrasts. Egypt, ferectly beautiful, leading men swiftly into passion; sober England, with nuleter tragedles; contact of lives as different as the Egyptian East and the English West; strangs meetings and stranger partings—the people seem to be holding separate strands of faith and waving them together as their lives recommend it. 25c.

row. Triumph is full of material re-wards, but is spiritual as well.

Passion is deep in the book, and so is sacrifice. Fights are hard, both of body and soul. A great man, a good woman, and life worth living right—this is the secret of the story—the power of it cam-not be described—The Copp, Clark Com-pany, Limited, Toronto.

AWARDED MEDAL.

Royal Humane Society Recognized Heroic Act of Miss Sutherland of New Westminster.

In New Westminster a few evenings ago Miss Marion P. Sutherland, aged 17 years, was presented with the medal of the Royal Humane Society for saving life. The presentation was made by Premier McBride at Queen's Park, before an immense crowd who were attending the fair.

C. J. South, referring to the act of bravery by which the medal was won, said the nerole action of Miss Sutherland in January last had brought honer, not only to New Westmingser, but to British Columbia and the whole of Canada. This lady was brave enough and cool enough, when she saw a young feliow fall through the lice and heard his cries for help, to go at once and save cries for help, to go at once and save him by lying flat upon the treacherous ice and catch his hands in her own tce and catch his hands in her own, thus saving his life.

Miss Margaret Watson and Miss. Briggs presented Miss Sutherland with a handsome bouquet on behalf of the pupils of the High School which, Miss. Watson said, was a small token of their regard and in recognition of her salendly brayers.

FRUIT GROWERS COMPLAIN OF C. P. R

Shed Is Needed at Mission City to Store Produce-Awaiting Shipment.

The question of rapid fransportang, and the labor problem, were some of the matters which were briefly dis ussed at a meeting of the B. C. Fruit Growers' Association, which was held at New Westminster on Thursday, and arrangements were made to give these questions due attention at the general meeting of the association which will onvene here on the third Wednesday in January.

Mr. Payne, of Mission City, raised the transportation question. He could see no reason why the ranchers should grow fruit snd allow the railway companies to spoil, it. He referred to his own place, Mission City, where fruit, he stated, is often left around in the care until some of it has spoilt before being taken away by the C. P. R. One of the greatest needs of the berry growers at Mission City was a shed at the station in which to store fruit while waiting shipment. A note was made of this in January. shipment. A note was made of this matter by the secretary, and the C. P. R. will be asked to remedy the defect.

Mrs. Birtch, a prominent fruit grow-er of Vancouver Island, pointed out the er of Vancouver Island, pointed out the need of competent labor. She stated that unless steps were taken by the government to bring in suitable help, many of the island berry growers will have to go out of business. Members of the association from Boundary, Koctenay, Okanagan and other districts, endorsed Mrs. Birtch's remarks.

tenay, Okanagan and other districts, endorsed Mrs. Birtch's remarks.

The consensus of opinion was that Asiatics should not be allowed to come into the country, notwithstanding that they fill a great gap so far as the farmer is concerned. The possibility of their turning farmer on a large scale and driving the white farmer or out of business in this country was cited as a probable result of a wholesale immigration of Orientals.

Chairman Johnston explained the working of the B. C. Fruit and Produce Association, which alms to distribute the products of the land for the farmers, and it was decided to have fur. Johnston visit the various districts and go into the matter fully with the growers and endeavor to have them all join the association.

Geo. Rose, edilor of the Kelowna Courier, was on a flying visit to the city, going on to the Sound to-day.

Senator Baird and daughter, of Andover, New Brunswick, are spending a few days in the city.

Miss Bertha Morley has returned to the city, after spending the past year with friends in England.

prettiest and brightest chorus girls of any aggregation on the road.

At the begining of this season there were over 2,000 applicants for the chorus, and a well known New York manager asked Mr. Askin one day why the girls preferred to go with his at tractions rather than with any other "Well," said Mr. Askin, "it's just like this, I give them more salary than any other producing manager. In the summer time I have a school for acting at Chicago, and the girls come there absolutely free. They learn to dance and sing; they are free to go anywhere they want to after they are through; I give them my confidence and they appreciate it; I never speak rough to a chorus girl; I pay them more money than they make anywhere else; if a girl runs short of funds I never turn them down."

The sanitarium by the county health authorities, and the complications ensuring are Griginal and amusing to an extraordinary degree. The production is staged by Ned Wayburn, a master of his craft, and there is not a conventional danoing or singing number in the score.

The New-Grand.

The spiendid bill at the New Grand this week is playing to deservedly crowded houses every might. Many of the patrons claim that it is the best yet given at the theatre, and while that is perhaps putting it a little strong, there is no doubt but that the programme deserves all the good things that are said of it and that it will take a foremost place among those that have been good enough to remain in one's memory after their week was up. Three feature acts of the highest class are headed by Harry First & Co., in 'The Marriage Fee.' a little Jewish playlet that has not been equalled by any sketch given heretofore. The Mascagins, European whirlwind and fancy dancers have a beautiful, clever and difficult act. The great Ernests, comedy acrobatic act with bounding table, keeps the audience in a continual roar slidney Forrester, English comedian and coster singer, has grown in favor fill week. Cora Thomas, singing soubrette; Ernest L. Shaw in filustrated song; moving picture description of a hunt for caribou, and the overture. "Love in Idliences," by Prof. Nagel's orchestra, make up the other numbers, At the top of a big bill for next week is the great midget, Major Doyle, who rathes as a drawing card, with Mrs. General Tom Thumb and Cliquita, both of whom have been seen here under Mr. Jamieson's management. Major Doyle, despite his diminutive stature is one of the best of entertainers in funny songs and stories. Other features will be: Faust Brothers, in a pantomine musical act. Joe Palmer and Billy Saxion, comedy singers and dancers, who make a speciality of Ghetto characters; Harry Rickrode, premier gerial ring contortionist; the Whitesides, in a comedy sketch, entitled "Nonsense": Ernest L. Shaw, singing the illustrated song, "Honey Boy"; new moving pictures, "The Starving Artist," and the overture "Light Cavalry." by Prof. Negel's orchestra.

The best bill and the strongest drawing card ever given at the cosy Pantages theatre will close to-night. Heading an all-star aggregation of vaudeville artistes are Lavelle and Grant, two of the best exponents of physical culture on the American variety stage. The wonderful hand-balancing and posing features of their turn have been a topic of conversation for all who have seen them. Ned Bennett, champion bone soloist of the United States, gives a wonderful exhibition of trick playing and is a whole show in himself. Lazar and Lazar, with their singing dog "Dimple" provide a very attractive and satisfying musical turn. Myrile Victorine is a soubrette of exceptional cleverness and her toe-dancing is something out of the ordinary. IKEDO MINES PROMISE WELL

A HIGH VALUATION IS PLACED ON THEM

Reported That Million and a Quarter Has Been Offered For

The development of the immense mineral resources of Moresby island, in the Queen Charlotte group is proceeding apace, and the recent strikes of ore that have been made are attracting attention to the island from all parts of the American continent. Only a few days ago a big strike was made near Collinson Bay, and during the last few weeks reports have come to hand regarding the discovery of various large copperors badies, all proving beyond, doubt that the island is destined to produce as minmense amount of mineral wealth. Provincial Mineralogist Robertson completed a tous of the island a short time ago, and will brepare a report upon the completion of his work in the north.

The largest mine on the island at present, in fact the only one from which ore is being shipped, is that owned by Awaya, Ikeda & Co., of Vancouver, Tokio, Osaka and Fusan, Korea. It consists of forty mining claims adjoining each other, covering a big area and giving indications of very large copper deposits. The mine was discovered about a year ago by A. Ikeda near a small bay which has since been named after the Japanese prospector. For several months this year extensive preparations were made to place the mine. In working order, a substantial wharf, connected with the mine by a tramway, six thousand feet long, having been constructed. A few weeks ago the first shipment of ore was brought down to

AN ARTIST OF PROMISE.

Italian Who Once Soldered Tin Cans, Earns Fame in New York Studios.

New York, Oct. 5.—Antonio Barone, an Italian, 19 years of age, is now a student at the Art Student's League, and is turning out work in portraiture which is gaining him the commendation of such masters, as Kenyon Cox, and William H. Chase. Yet about a year ago, Barone was soldering tin cans in a factory.

Miss Ida C. Leroy, who had studied art in this city, heard that an Italian, working in the factory who could hardly speak English was making such good pictures that they were the talk of the place. After looking over his sketches she made arrangements by which he would have time for drawing. He has already won a scholaring. He has already won a scholar-

DROWNED ON WEST COAST.

While several scamen from the steamer Maude, under charter to the Dominion marine and fisheries department, were engaged in taking some camp gear along the west coast near Pachena Point to make a new camp for the men engaged in building the west coast trail, their boat was upset in the surf and William Holness, a young Englishman, was drowned.

Capt. Gaudin, agent of marine, received a telegram from Capt. Anderson, of the Maude, yesterday evening, reporting the fatality. Holness was a seaman engaged upon the Maude, and had no relatives in this province as far as is known. The other men who were thrown from the boat had a strenuous time in reaching the shore.

H. M. S. Egeria, Gazetted to New Appointment.

London, Oct. 4.-Lieutenant Bishop London, Oct. 4.—Lieutenant Bishop O. M. Davy, late second in command of the survey ship Egeria, on the Pacific coast, has been appointed to the command of the survey ship Sealark, now carrying on very important survey work in the Indian ocean. The Sealark has also several distinguished scientists aboard, who are making a theoryth reaboard, who are making a thorough re-search into marine life and vegetation in those waters.

Tokio, Oct. 4.—It was reported this morning that the real mother of the Empercy, named Nakayama, who has held the highest rank at the royal court, was seriously ill. It is believed, moreover, that she died early to-day. The Emperor is officially supposed to be the son of the deceased Empress Asako, but the son of Nakayama was adopted as helr to the throne by the late Emperor Komei-Tenno, who died in 1867. Empress Asako died in 1867.

Paris, Oct. 4.-Walter Wellman, leader Paris, Oct. 4.—Walter Wellman, leader of the Wellman Chicago Record-Herald Arctic exploration expedition, arrived here to-day from Norway, and will leave Paris for Chicago by way of New York in a forthight. He declares the performance of the dirigible balloon America, at Spitzbergen, has made him more confident than ever of the practicability of reaching the Pole in an air-ship.

THOUSANDS OF WOMEN TORTURED

Headaches simply mean poisoned blood. The human body is constantly decaying and being , renewed. Dead matter is absorbed by the blood, and should be taken from the blood by the kidneys, bowels and skin and passed out of the system. If one of these organs does not act properly, the blood becomes impure—if two fall, death is certain.

When there is constant headaches, it is always found that the bowels are irregular, the kidneys weak, or the skin sluggish, pale or sallow. The tissue waste is left in the blood—carried to the brain — and irritates the nerves. To treat headaches with co-caine, morphine, phenacitine and the host of "headache powders" is useless. They relieve for the moment, but they clog the system and do harm. They never reach the seat of the trouble, they cannot purify the blood.

"Fruit-a-tives" completely cure Headaches. They stimulate the liver and make the bowels move regularly. They regulate the kidneys. They induce healthy skin action. Thus, all the waste matter—body poisons—are taken out of the blood and there is nothing to cause headaches. "Fruit-a-tives" are fresh fruit juices—in which the medicinal action is greatly increased by the special way in which they are combined. Soc. a hox; 6 for $2.5c. SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON.

A HERO'S PROMOTION.

By William T, Ellis.

belind is often more interesting than what is to the fore. Kipling's commonplace travel letters are extremely worth while as reveating the original sources of much of his best later work. There the reader finds many of the real persons, places and incidents which later were wrought into fiction and poetry. This is the charm of biography: It introduces one to the factors that went into the making of a life. Now that a new figure looms largest on the horizon of Israel's history, as the Sunday schools are studying it, it is worth while to look behind the promotion, and schools are studying it. It is worth while to look behind the promotion, and see Joshua in the making.

A hard boyhood that school in which is many great men have been trained, a lucated Joshua to life's actualities. He had know the rigors of slavery in Egypt and all the blackness of that pit out of which Moses led the nation. Then, better than a college course, Joshua had been servant and associate of Moses. He had seen more than a little fighting; it was under his leadership that Amaleh was smitten, while Moses prayed. Aaron and, Hur holding up his hand. Always Joshua appears as a man of action, with the virtues of the doer and the warrior. Most commonly, though, he is remembered as one of the two spies who brought back a favorable report from the Promised Land. His fear-bitten comrades had perished miserably in the wilderness; here, at last, he was vindicating his earlier judgment by himself leading the host into the long-desired Canaan.

A Man Who Was "Somebody."

A Man Who Was "Somehody " A Man Who Was "Somebody."

Every appearance of Joshua in history suggests Personality. He was a character. In a colorless crowd he stood out like a red flag on a green field. The Bible honors personality; to-day it is seemingly discredited by society. Civilization appears to be determined to wipe out distinctive lines; to dress us all alike, house us all alike, make us walk and talk alike, and all things to compel us to conform to its deadto compel us to conform to its dead-level standards. The greatest harm done by the changing styles is that they tend to make men and women as much alike as wooden figures from a toy Nogb's as alike as wooden figures from a toy Noah's ark.

There is no vital need that one should be in the fashion; there is greatest need that one should be one's self. It is everybody's business in the world to express his own individuality, to live his own life, to make his own definite contribution to his time; in a word, to be a personality. From the thin ranks of the personalities God has to select all His leaders of men, even as He chose Joshua from the characteriess crowd of wanderers. The parents who abet the modern process of repressing crowd of wanderers. The parents who abet the modern process of repressing and effacing the individuality of children, endeavoring to have all conform to a conventional model, just as a Chinese workman carves a thousand ivory figures exactly allke, are doing everything in their power to prevent their offspring from ever becoming Joshuas. Instead of a socialism which would level everybedy down to the one plane, the world needs a noble and unselfish individualism which will lift up each person to the fullest possible expression of himself.

recalls that it stands on the shoulders of all who have gone before. Each of us's himself—plus all predecessors. We live in houses that other men have built and do a work which other men

"What matter, I or they? Mine or another's day? So the right word be said, And life the sweeter made.

"Ring, belis in far-off steeples. The joy of unborn peoples! Sound, trumpets far-off blo Your triumph is my own!"

Great experiences are chastening. In the hour of his accession to leadership Joshua doubtless perceived his own lim-itations most clearly. Else there would not have been need for God to hearken him repeatedly. Whoever undertakes a big. job, or gets a large conception of life, is bound to feel chastened and in-

The Great Partnership.

A journalist stands unbashed before kings because he represents a power mightler than any king, namely, public mightier than any king, namely, public opinion. The ambassador may be a plain man at home, but he lifts up his head in court because he represents a nation. A fravelling salesman has confidence to approach a busy man because he represents an important firm himself. The preacher, elsewhere, perhaps, a very ordinary man, in the puipit lifts up-his voice in assured teaching to all men because he believes himself to be a messenger of the Highest.

The reason why Joshus was confident.

The reason why Joshua was confident The reason why Joshua was confident was that he had the assurance, "As I was with Moses, so I will be with thee;" I will not fail thee nor forsake thee." This sense of partnership with God is what makes the weakest strong. It is confidence and power. For in this firm the Senior Partner pledges His all to stand behind the acts of His associates.

stand behind the acts of His associates. A divine audacity is imparted to a character by the knowledge that it is actively co-operating with God. This explains the sublime daring of the great reformers. It makes plain why the missionary propaganda throughout the world is irresistible. Better than to have an armed host at one's back is it to have the assurance, "Lo. I am with you all the days." Paul is the here of the apostolic Church because he had learned to say, "I can do all things through Christ which strengtheneth me."

day's duty is recreant to the past. All who let present opportunity escape, while they mourn at the grave of the dear dead, are showing poorest honor to the departed.

A good life rule is, when undecided, do the more courageous thing. There is never a day, and scarcely an hour, in even, the quietest life when the exercise of courage is not called for. The amelioration of society's lils waits more its best, so a broad and exalted conception of life and its relations expands and quickens one's powers. To see the present at but part of a whole, of which the past and the future are also pieces, is to attain a position where symmetrical growth and effective service are most possible. To-day is "heir of all the ages." Joshua succeeds Moses, his arm atrengthened by all of the power of the latter i achievements. There is scant room for vanity in the life which

By William T. Ellis. "On the job" is one of the newer slang thrases. The colloquial way to praise in efficient man is to say that he is "on he job." He is not merely "occupying position" or "filling an office," he is ctually doing the work. That is the 'Men who do the work for which they

"Men who do the work for which they draw the wage."

As the cry for efficiency echoes throughout the commercial world, so is it also heard in religious service. Religious effectiveness is not coextensive with religious organization. Too much with religious organization. Too much of the Church's power is spent in making the wheels go round. Now output is the only possible justification for a machine—yes, and of human beings as well. They must produce—"deliver the goods," to borrow again a forceful phrase from the day's slang. The only test of a tree is its fruit; the only proof of a successful religious organization is its results.

Work is an end in itself; yet it effects

Diligence is more than half of skill. Sheer industry can accomplish more than genius. There is less call for the brilliant worker than for the one who simply keeps plugging away at his task through all conditions. They who wait most for inclination to work, find inclination increasingly cox. In Christian nation increasingly coy. In Christian service especially it is the faithful plod-der who counts most.

Failures are not meant to be final. They are simply experiments; they point to a better way of achieving the desired end. Probably nobody ever accomplished anything for mankind without first having had a dismal experience with what he thought at the time to be failures. Out of such, though, make a great building.

Two engines of equal steam power may accomplish far different results, because one of them leaks steam, wastes a great deal blowing its whistle, and has rusty ill-adjusted bearings, while the other is tight and bright, and throws all the steam into the steam-chest and makes the most of it. Where have we wasted power? Where have the bearings been rough? Where can we concentrate by closing the leaks this year?—The C. E. World.

Purpose produces power. Determination begets deeds. "A mind to work" rebuilt Jerusalem. A spirit of resolution will accomplish wonders in the body of workers. If this spirit, "Rally to the Work," can be infused into a young people's society, it's winter's suecess is sure. For ways of working wait only on a will to work. There is plenty to do, and means of doing it, for every willing worker.

No Christian work is large enough which does not take thought of the whole world's needs.

A Splendid Endorsement

for the shares of the HIGHLAND MARY GOLD MINES, LIMITED, is the fact that large blocks are being rapidly subscribed for at Cobalt, Halleybury, New Liskeard and Larger Lake. We are receiving letters from mining engineers and miners every day reserving large blocks of HIGHLAND MARY shares. These men have been over the ground, and in all of the letters we receive from them they say that the properties are even better than we represent them, and that HIGHLAND MARY will be the greatest and most profitable mines in the Larder Lake district. The fact that these experienced men are investing their own money in HIGHLAND MARY should be sufficient to satisfy the most skeptical. Miners employed on the nearby mines are all pinning their faith to the HIGHLAND MARY. They are buying all the shares they can. They realise what a splendid investment they are getting in buying HIGHLAND MARY at 10 CENTS PER SHARE. They know a good thing when they see it. Are you going to join them in making a fortune? Bankers and conservative business men throughout the whole country are now buying these for their investment. We strongly advisued clients not to hesitate, but buy to-day at 10 CENTS PER SHARE. We have only one million shares to dispose of at this price, and at the rate they are being absorbed they will not last long. The public will six months from now buy at One Deliar per share or more. We strongly urge the immediate purchase of these shares. We are placing our own funds in it, and we are willing to stake our reputation on the morits of HRSH-LAND MARY.

The properties consist of 39 claims of 40 acres each, making a total acreage of 1,200 acres. laims are in the locality of the famous Reddick claims, the Proprietary Gold Fields, and the rull Blue Bell and Lucky Boys properties.

We have sent our own mining engineers to examine and report on the properties, to looked exhaustively into the merits of the properties before offering the shares to our client question if an opportunity like this will ever present itself to you again. We advise our client buy HIGHLAND MARY.

We advise you to buy all you can, you are bound to profit greatly thereby.

The stock of the HIGHLAND MARY is actually worth a great deal more money than the price are asking for it. Our engineers figure that there is in sight on the properties of the Company dequal to many times the par value of the total capitalization of the Company. All it requires investors to make money is to have faith and confidence.

Could you visit the Larder Lake district and examine the properties, as we have done, you not hesitate a single moment in plating every dollar at your command in the shares of High-

10 CENTS PER SHARE

. . (Par Value, $1.86. Fully Paid and Non-assessable.)

All of the Directors of the Company are well-known and successful business mennet men that are simply interested in a mine—but men that are miners in every sense of the word, and who know how to operate, maintain and conduct a mine in a business-like manner, and who have been connected with the strongest and most successful mines in the Cobalt camp. These gentlemen are just the kind of mining men that investors should be gird to become identified with.

consected with the strongest and most successful mines in the Cobalt camp. These gestlemen are just the kind of mintag men that investors should be glad to become identified with.

The mineral production during the current year has been remarkable as compared with former records, and it will be still greater in 1993. Remember, when you see the snormous advances in the prices of Larder liake mining securities that are coming immediately, and that will continue for menths and months, if not for years, that we told you to select one or more good stocks, and that a small investment in them will yield inside of a very short time encormous profits that would be impossible in any other industry.

We are not trying to sell stocks to uneducated or half-witted people. We are trying to interest legitimate business men in a proposition that we believe will turn out to be one of the greatest of its kind the world has ever known, and again we say, if you are not in a position to hold this stock until such time as the properties are developed, we do not want you to buy it. A mine cannot be developed in a day any more than a railway of 56 miles can be built in an hour, and no railway ever paid dividends or ever amounted to anything until the trains were running, and a mining property cannot amount to anything until the ore is being treated. Feople who purchase the stock of the HighHLAND MARY cannot expect the Officers and Directors of the Company to pay dividends until stilled deads are carned. We do honestly believe, however, that within a year HighHLAND MARY will be paying dividends to its stockholders. We are in business to-day and we propose to stay in it wittle there is any business to be had, and we can say to you now that in some years to come we expect to be counted among the financial houses that are spoken of and referred to in the highest terms by investors.

When we effered the first block of Blue Bell and Lucky Boys shares, we predictions are being endorsed daily by emissat engineers arriving from the golden north

Tragic Close to a Vicar's Thirty Years'

Rev. Alfred Love, who has been vicar of St. Paul's, Greenwich, for the past thirty years, fell dead, immediately after the service one Sunday evening.

Mr. Love had been in failing health for some time past, and although feeling indisposed attended both services, in the evening during the service he spent most of the time in the vestry, but insisted upon preaching the sermon, which he did with great impressiveness.

When leaving the church Mr. Love fell to the ground in an unconscious state. He was carried to the vicarage, where it was found that life was extinct.

Porcupine, or something dreadful.

"Nonsense, your Grace," said Ludevic, "you can't possibly go roaming about the country just because Miss Selysatte chooses to disappear in this silly way. She'll come back right enough. Why you don't remain quiet like other laties, I can't think."

But Ingebrun was determined to start at once. Distressed as she was about Selysette, she was a little comforted by the magnificence of the adventure of setting out vaguely to look for her. So she dressed herself in a short (though elegant) blue skirt and hood, and started, accompanied by Pomadine, who insisted on coming too, for she was sure Ingebrun would never get her shoes properly blacked unless she did.

They walked ten miles or so that day, asking every likely person they met for news of Selysette, and though no one could give her any news at all, they were so interested, it was quite a pleasure speaking to them. They slept that night at a horrible inn, where one could get nothing to eat except lard and pickled cabbages, and then exter many harrow escapes and then after many harrow escapes cept lard and pickled cabbages, and the next day they passed through a tract of country infested by robbers, and then, after many narrow escapes of various kinds, they came, on the Ahirteenth day, to a most beautiful meadow, dotted with hawthorn trees, and there, picking the largest mush-rooms Ingebrun had ever seen, was a Queen dressed in carnation colored robes and wearing a lovely copper errown.

If is a city which lies much further It is a city which lies much further south than most people have travelled yet. If you worry and get gross because you are afraid of missing a train, or because your nose is the wrong shape or because people don't ask you to their parties, or because you can't find the latter you had in your hand only a minute ago, you will never go there, for the great characteristic of the inhabitants is good temper, and they make it their first duty never to feel anything they don't want to; so they are very stimulating companions. The town is built entirely of white marble and everyone amuses everyone else ble and everyone amuses everyone else all day long. Lots of the inhabitants all day long. Lots of the inhabitants are queens, and they always go about gorgeously dressed, attended by black boys and parakeets and greyhounds, especially in carnival time, which it always is from January till the 12th of December. They rearely move away from the town, which contains enough adventures to satisfy them; besides, they dislike trouble, and Ingebrun was really extraordinarily fortunate to have come by accident to a place she had sitways meant to visit.

come by accident to a piace she has always mean; to visit.

The Queen advanced to meet her, and addressed her with so much tact and politeness, that Ingebrui instantly teld her the whole history of her wanderings and asked her advice.

"Really," she said, "how stupid of me. I dare say Selysette has been captured by the yellow ogre who lives haif a mile from here. I noticed only yesterday morning the dragon (which he keeps for hunting purposes) flying over the town with a sir! in his claws. I did not observe her appearance, but anyhow, she is as likely to haye been Selysette as not. I am sorry to tell you he always eats his captives, but you may be still in time, airli if you like, I can supply you with a suit of magic armor. Clothed in this you can easily rescue your friend; but you must be very tired. I suppose you would not care to take for granted that Selysette has been eaten, and spend the rest of your life with us? It's a terribly trying half-mile on such a very warm afternoon." "Really," she said, "how stupid of me.

waited with a certain amount of interest.

There was a great deal of fumbling and muttering, and their the gate opened, and ingebrun stood face to face with the ogre himself.

He was enormous and hideous and bright yellow, and what struck Ingebrun at once with considerable alarm was the fact that he was quite bald, so how she was to get him into her power she really couldn't think.

"Dear me," he began, wearily, "dearme. Who on earth are you? I hope you have nothing unpleasant to tell me, because what with the bousemaids and the kitchenmaids, and the bad butterthey will give me for breakfast.

the kitchenmaids, and the bad butter they will give me for breakfast, I couldn't stand it. Come in, though, I can spare you five minutes. Ingebrun, astonished but reassured, followed him into the courtyard, and he carefully re-locked the gates, after-wards polishing the keps upon his sleeve.

he carefully re-locked the gates, afterwards polishing the keps upon his sleeve.

"I am looking for a friend of mine," said Ingebrun cheerfully. "People say you have carried her to your castle and there is a rumor (which is, I am sure, untrue) that you may eat her. I should not have troubled you otherwise, and I have put on this magic armor on purpose to make you release her," she ended, with a mild threat.

"It's all epite and malice," said the ogre, frowning elightly. "I know these very unfair rumors are spread about me, but I have never eaten anyone in my life. It's not a nice habit. Only, I must have servants. People don't object to that, I suppose. But, with my reputation, do you think people about here will come of their own free will. Of course not. I, am therefore compelled to keep a dragon, who finds me a kitchen or housemald whenever. I need one. If my methods are rough, thay are necessary. The other day he produced for me a stupid red-haired girl with large hands, and it is she apparently whe was mistaken for your girl with large hands, and it is sh apparently who was mistaken for your friend. She, however, refuses to cook for me, so I subsist chiefly on tinned foods. Besides, it is impossible to get fresh butter in this nelghborhood. I should not advise you to take a house here. May I also add, with regard to your magic armor, that you have evidently been given the wrong suit. The kind you are wearing is quite obsolete. I am an authority on these matters."

This was a little startling, but didn't really matter since the ogre was so mild and harmless, and Ingebrun, after sympathising with him over his domestic troubles, said she must instantly go apparently who was mistaken for sympathising with him over its donesers to troubles, said she must instantly go back again. "But," she added, "if I hear of anyone wanting a place, I'll send them to you. I'm sorry I can't stay longer, but I'm analous to tell my friends in Salsimain that you haven't cater me."

The ogre, who had been gazing rather dejectedly at Ingebrun, now rather dejectedly at Ingebrun, now spoke again.

"I am thinking," he said, "that as you are here and as the red-haired girl is an imbecile, you shall cook nsteaid. I do not think it right to miss opportunities, and as I never invited you, I can scarcely be accused of breaking the laws of hospitality."

"But, good gracious," cried Ingebrun, dismayed. "I can't cook. I can only make two dishes, and they are both unsatisfactory. Besides, I must hunt about for Selysette."

make two dishes, and they are both unsatisfactory. Besides, I must hunt about for Selysette."

"That is nonsense." said the ogre sternly. "Any woman can cook if she tries. I have all the latest cookery books. You look quite capable—you can't escape—I shan't, of course, harm you in any way, and you may have sil your meals with me."

Ingebrun, seeing there was nothing else to be done, followed him to the kitchen. It was an enormous place, very badly kept. The red-haired girl, in a furlous rage, was sitting on a table very badly kept. The red-haired girl, in a furious rage, was sitting on a table defiantly trimming: a hat. Evidently she was not afraid of the ogre.

"You must leave instantly and without a character." he said, addressing her severely. He then took her sently by the ear, and led her solemnly out of the kitchen. Ingebrun heard the distant sound of a closing door.

The ogre soon returned. "You will find all the accoutrements of a cook in the next room." he said. "You can hardly cook in armer. Please add a few pinches of sait when you are boiling the vegetables; and you need not dress for dinner." He then sadly left the kitchen.

Ingebrun was angry, but very hungry, men, women and children, in fact any-Ingebrun was angry, but very hungry, so, for her own sake she determined to attempt an omelette, and began at last really to enjoy the situation. She longed to try some of the very richest receipts she could find out of the numerous cookery books, only the various ingregients were so scattered about the kitchen that it was impossible. At length she produced one or two dishes which were quite as hasty as any one might expect. She and the ogre dined alone in a great bare hall, and though

I possess enough self-knowledge to realize that I am scarcely your ideal mate, so we will not touch on the subject of marriage. But I will be much obliged if you will let me return with you and fill some post about your garden or stables. I have been idle too long. My digestion is deteriorating, manual labor will, moreover, add dignity to my character."

Ingebrun saw no reason for refusing him, and besides she was delighted at the chance of getting away. So the two went out.

The yellow dragon had conveniently died that morning of old age and worry, so they had no regret in leaving him behind. They returned through Salsimain, where the linkabitants, presuming ingebrun had been eaten, prepared a most glorious pageant, called "The Life and Death of Duchess Ingebrun," which was a series of enthralling, but wholly imaginary adventures, ending by an ogre. They were overing, but wholly imaginary adventures, ending by an ogre. They were overjoyed, however, at seeing her again, and apologized many times for giving her (as they discovered soon after her departure) the wrong armor; they begged that she and the ogre would fill their own parts in the pageant, which they did, which made it more realistic. She would have stayed many, many months at Salsimain, had it not been for her anxiety to get home where she months at Salsimain, had it not been for her anxiety to get home where she was sure there must be some news of Selyette. She departed, therefore, the very next morning, laden with gifts the ogre carried over his shoulder in a red pocket-handkerchief.

Within a week, Ingebrun was home again, and who should greet her on the doorstep but Selysette, looking just the same as usual.

it was, the only effect of the grey pastille was to send me to sleep for three days. Then I woke and found everything in confusion and you gone, and

But they were all very pleased to see But they were all very pleased to see Ingebrun again. The ogre was quite happy doing odd jobs in the garden, and exercising the Chimaera. Ingebrun found lots of terribly exciting letters from her friends, describing their adventures, and these are to be published some day, with a preface of a very forcible and piquant nature by Selysette.

THE THAW CASE.

New York, Oct. 4.—Counsel for Harry Thaw notified the district attorney office to-day that he expects to go before Justice Dowling in the supreme court on Menday next, and plead for an early date for the trial of his client. The district attorney's office will contend that other cases demand more immediate attention and that it will be impossible to proceed with the trial of Thaw before December 1st.

A Serious Question.

A persistent bad cold will run into consumption unless it is relieved in time. So it is with the little daily wants of the people—they grow serious if not promptly filled. You can afford, for instance, to have that house tenantiess for a little while, but when a continues tenantiess month ... month it becomes a serious matter. The timely "want" ad, ends the trouble.

ANCIENT MIRRORS.

It is believed that we are indebted for our mirrors to the ancient Egyptians. At first they were made of metal, well compounded and pollshed; indeed, we are told that some of these relics, dug up-not many years ago from Thebes, have retained wonderful lustre after burial for thousands of years. Oval in shape, they were fastened to carved wooden handles. The Greeks and Romans made similar mirrors of silver. for our mirrors to the ancient Egypt

Oval in shape, they were fastened to carved wooden handles. The Greeks and Romans made similar mirrors of silver.

Pliny says that the earliest mirrors were made of black volcanic glass. Through the middle ages glass, backed with thin metallic sheets, came into use; and in the thirteenth century mirrors at Morano, near Venice, were made from cylinders of glass flattened on stone, carefully polished, bevelled at the edges, and silvered by an amalgam. In the toilet sets of a Japanese lady, mirrors are of brilliantly polished metal.

"Do you keep three servants?" asked a solicitor of a defendant at Wandsworth County court. "No," was the reply. "I keep two and a wife. At least, I have a wife now, and owe the two servants

ROOSEVELT AND PANAMA CANAL

AMERICA TO PROTECT NEW WATERWAY

President of United States Is Given Royal Reception at Memphis--Fighting Speech.

Memphis, Tenn., Oct. 4.—With bands playing, children singing and enthusiastic men shouting the slogan of deep waterways, Memphis threw wide her gates this afternoon to President Roosevelt, his escort of governors and many other distinguished personages of the Mississippi valley.

The president arrived on the United States steamer Mississippi shortly after 1 o'clock. The bluffs overlooking the river were packed with spectators, who gave the chief executive a warm welcome. As the steamer moored, the whistles of all craft in the harbor were sounded.

Immediately following the steamer Mississippi was the steamer Alton, carrying the visiting governors and other notables. When all had landed the president was conducted to a carriage by Governor Patterson, of Tennessee, and Mayor Malone, of Memphis and an imposing parade commenced. The president was continuously cheered throughout the march. The city was a waving mass of color, not only along the line of parade, but on many other streets as well. When the president closed his rain at the Missouri Pacific railroad station, and departed at 5 o'clock for Lake Providence, La., for a hunting trip.

YOUR STOMACH IS SICK.

The urged the people to disregard party lines in all purely national matters in all purely national matters. Discussing the corporations, the president said his experience in the president said his exp this deep water problem is almost up to the 'go ahead' stage, but we want to be sure about it."

The Panama Canal, he said, was get-The Panama Canal, he said, was getting on well, and "the reason it is getting on so well is because we did not allow outselves to, go half-cocked. I received a telegram yesterday giving the excavations in the canal work for September, and although I had not hoped that the record for August could be exceeded. I am now told that September exceeded the preceding month by 200,000 cubic feet."

"When the canal has been completed," he said, "this nation would ask other governments to kindly not bother about the canal, that we would proabout the canal, that we would pro-

"We must have a large and highly efficient navy to patrol our coast, not only on the Atlantic, but on the Pacific," he said.

He urged the people to disregard party lines in all purely national mat-carriage turned into Main street, he was saluted by a regiment of Confederate veterans, who from that point acted as a bodyguard. The president rose and warmly greeted the grizzled warriors.

Despite a lively downpour of rain, which lasted until noon, the streets were jammed with citizens. Passing north on Second street, 200 school children were seated on a decorated arch and sang patriotic airs as the president passed. The president rose in his carriage and bowed repeatedly to the little ones.

Arriving at the auditorium rink, where the deep waterways convention is being held, President Roosevelt alighted, and after chatting with several friends ascended the platform. The huge structure filled up rapidly, and when Governor Patterson arose to present the president Roosevelt alighted, and after chatting with several friends ascended the platform. The huge structure filled up rapidly, and when Governor Patterson arose to present the president Roosevelt departed from his printed speech in several instances. The Confederate grand of honor, he said, was a touching sight, and especially those old Confederate solders who carried the flag of the Union. If any one wanted to know how they would fight for that flag, let him ask the boys in blue how they fought against it. He sald, with emphasis, that he was as much the president of the South as of the North. He said he was half a southerner, and when he told of two or three of his unless having worn the grey he was tremendously epplayded.

Speaking of a deep water channel from the sult to the lakes, the president sid he preferred rapid improvement of the Mississippi river. "Like Davy Crockett, the great Bennessean," he said, "I favor the motto, be sure you are right and then go ahead," and

Delightful China Just Lately Arrived

TO those young people who shall this month choose their first Home Furnishings we extend a very cordial invitation to come here before finally deciding upon any purchases. We believe we can serve you better than any other establishment-for various reasons.

We believe that our extensive experience is worth something to beginners. We offer you larger stocks, and better assortments than any other house furnishing establishment in the West. Buying in large quantities enables us to offer values that cannot be beaten elsewhere. These are but a few of the many advantages of buying at this store.

We want you to see this superior showing of ours—the most extensive line of real fine furniture ever shown in this city. You'll see all the latest designs, latest styles of finish-the newest and best there is. We are in a position to suitably fur-

The New Brussels Carpets are Interesting

Interesting they have been to those who have seen them during the past week, and interesting they most certainly will be to you if you come to investigate. The carpets are new here—they are new and nice and good. There is "life" in the new designs that makes them "different;"—"snap" you don't find

We now have these new lines on display on our Second Floor, and invite you to come up and enjoy the delightful, rich Oriental designs, among these new arrivals. We know you'll be delighted with these new designs, because they are exceptionally nice. The beautiful "two-tone" effect will appeal to you of

The New Styles in Jardinieres

European manufacturers of JARDINIERES have produced some very striking and highly artistic specimens this season, the best of which we are now showing, to the delight of our customers.

The low prices at which some styles (and they are all good) can be beught, obviate the reason of economy for make-shift coverings for unsightly flower pots, coverings which do not insure against accidental musses from over-watering.

No flower pot should be with-out its jardiniere—when it costs so little and means so much practically and artistically. All sizes.

After the Fall House Cleaning. What's Needed?
